On motion of Senator Stevenson Chief Justice Waite was selected chairman of the meeting. An autopsy is being made by Surgeon General Early and assistants. The Vice President's brain has been removed, and weighed 49½ ounces. The flag of the Senate is at half mast and so are those of all public and many private buildings throughout the city.

The result of the proceedings was a committee to make arrangements for the funeral was appointed. The committee consisted of the following: Senators Boutwell, Sherman of Ohio, Morrill of Vermont, Secretary of State, Associate Justice Clifford, Representatives Garfield and Warren of Massachusetts, Randall of Pennsylvania and Commissioner Dennison, representing the District of Columbia. The committee subsequently met and adjourned to meet at the State department to-morrow to await the arrival of Senator Boutwell and a consultation with the authorities of Massachusetts.

Reception of the Sad News in New York and New England.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The unexpected news of the death of Vice President Wilson gave a shock to this community, and for a brief time was received with doubt, but the quick confirmation of its truthfulness dispelled the doubt which gave place to a general feeling of sadness. The national flag was placed at half mast upon all the newspaper offices and government buildings, Federal, State and municipal. Several of the courts adjourned, and in all a minute was made of the loss sustained by the death of the Vice President.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Mayor has convened the board of aldermen for [illegible] says the country will lament the loss of one of the most useful and eminent men ever in public office during the generation now passing away.

At Providence the mayor ordered the bells to be tolled for one hour.

From Boston a number of Mr. Wilson's friends have started for the capital. Throughout New England there is every manifestation of public sorrow.

At Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The Council was in session when the news of the death of the Vice President was received. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and the use of Independence Hall offered for the reception of the body on its way to Massachusetts.

At Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—The governor has officially announced the death of the Vice President and says the loss of this pure and distinguished statesman and honest man will be a cause of great mourning throughout the country and especially in the State in which he resided, where he was best known and most highly honored. Meeting of the council was summoned for suitable action.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—The news of Mr. Wilson's death was received at his late home, Natick, about 9 A. M. Bulletins were posted announcing the fact, and a general gloom fell on the citizens. The unostentatious rooms of the deceased, which were to have received him for the Thanksgiving holidays, are now being prepared for the reception of his body. His wife and family are buried at Natick and Mr. Wilson will also be buried there.

Baltimore Military Offer to Escort the Remains to Boston.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—At a meeting of officers of the [illegible]th regiment M. N. G. this afternoon, in consideration of personal kindness and courtesies extended recently by Vice President Wilson and the reception and hospitality of the city of Boston on the occasion of a visit in June, it was decided to tender the full regiment as an escort of the remains of the Vice President from Washington to Boston, or the place of burial. Lieutenant Colonel Pontier, quartermaster of the regiment, then proceeded to Washington to offer its services. A committee was also appointed to make necessary arrangements in case the tender is accepted.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—The announcement of the death of Vice President Wilson was a shock to the community. Flags on the city hall, government buildings and a number of business houses, including the offices of the daily papers and shipping, are at half mast in respect to his memory.

Honors to the Dead.

The embalmed remains of Mr. Wilson are laid in state in the Vice President's room on a catafalque, which occupies the place where the writing table stood at which he did all his work. The body is in a dress suit of black broadcloth and faces Rembrandt Peale's portrait of Washington, and beside it are wreaths, roses, japonicas, callas, white pinks and heliotropes from the wife of the President, and a cross of white flowers from General Babcock. The room is guarded by a detail of the capitol police. Sergeant-at-Arms French has received telegrams announcing that Gen. Cunningham, of the staff of the governor of Massachusetts, and Dunman and Turner, representing the Boston Council, will start for Washington to-night, and that Mr. Boutwell starts to-morrow. The funeral is not yet set. It is the desire of some friends to defer it till Congress assembles, but the question will probably be determined by his nephew and executor, W. L. Coolidge, of [illegible], who is yet to be heard from. The President called this afternoon, but as the process of embalming was in progress he retired without seeing the remains. The Massachusetts State Republican Association of this city held a meeting at which eulogies were pronounced and resolutions adopted commemorative of Mr. Wilson's life and character.

Post Mortem Examination.

The following is a synopsis of the result of the post mortem examination. It began at 11:15 A. M., four hours after death. Thermometer 62; external appearance nothing unusual; brain weighed 49 [illegible]; texture of brain full of black fluid blood; deposit of lymph on surface of cerebral hemisphere; consistence and color of brain normal; cyst the size of a pea in the choroid plexus; a bony deposit in the arteries at base of brain and in the anterior and middle cerebral arteries; the spinal cord not being abnormal in color or consistence. A microscopic examination made of his lungs disclosed old pleuritic adhesions on the left side; there was a cancerous deposit the size of a pea on the middle lobe of the right lung. The lungs were congested; the heart normal, except calcareous deposit in aortic valve; liver congested. The cause of death apoplexy.

A Senator's Funeral.

The senators held a meeting to-day and appointed Senators Windom, Eaton of Connecticut, Sargent of California and Kelly of Oregon to attend the funeral of the late Senator Ferry, of Connecticut. These gentlemen have power to add to the committee.

The funeral of the late Vice President will probably take place Wednesday.

The supreme court of the United States will not transact business this week, owing to the interruption by the death of the Vice President and the observance of Thanksgiving.

In accordance with an order of the President that appropriate military and naval services be rendered in memory of Vice President Wilson, the following order was issued by the secretary of war this afternoon: On the day succeeding the receipt of this at each military post the troops will be paraded at 10 o'clock A. M. and the order read to them. The national flag will be displayed at half staff. At dawn of day 13 guns will be fired, commencing at 12 M. 17 minute guns will be fired, and at the close of day the national salute of 37 guns. The usual badge of mourning will be worn by officers of the army, and the colors of the several regiments will be put in mourning for a period of three months. An appropriate order will be issued by the secretary of the navy to-morrow.

Dispatch from Senator Ferry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The following dispatch was received by the President from Hon. T. W. Ferry, president pro tem. of the senate:

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Nov. 22.

To the President of the United States: I received with profound sorrow the information of the death of Vice President Wilson and share with you in this great loss to the country. All mourn with his personal friends. T. W. FERRY.

The Texan Border Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—General Ord, in command of the department of Texas, in his annual report gives a long account of the border operations of Mexican bandits, most of which has been anticipated by press dispatches. The report closes with some significant suggestions. More effective means [illegible] than [illegible] troops to look on while our people are being despoiled and murdered, for it is evident that soldiers, however willing, can do nothing if confined to this side of the river, and an order to make reprisals with means to carry out the order [illegible] resulted in [illegible] as well as securities.

French Assembly.

[illegible] to-day the debate on the third reading of the electoral bill began. All amendments to the first clause in regard to the terms of residence required for voters, which were agreed to on the 8th and 9th inst., were to-day rejected, and the clause was definitely adopted as originally submitted. The right center had a meeting and resolved to oppose all the amendments which the Left Centre introduce, with a view of modifying the vote of the 11th inst. On the 14th the clause of the bill by which the scrutin de arrondissement was adopted as a method of voting. Ministers Buffet and Dufaure to-day attended the sitting of the committee to which the press bill was referred. M. Buffet said the constitution contained no enunciation of principles. The press might discuss the republican form of government, but must not attack the assembly or powers established by the constitution of the assembly of December 15th.

English Grain Markets.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Mark Lane Express weekly review of the corn trade says: Rain has indefinitely postponed much of the autumnal sowing in England, with the bad condition of samples and continued large imports. Many markets are a shilling cheaper, but farmers are reluctant to accept lower prices except for poor samples. When foreign arrivals slacken, as soon they must, and [illegible] are paid, better trade at more paying prices seems more than likely. It appears that French reports have been favorable. No sowing has been done in some districts. This has hardened prices of wheat in Paris and the provinces, although flour is somewhat cheaper. Prices in Belgium are firm and in Holland stationary. In Germany the markets are inactive and generally unchanged, though at Dantzig and in Hungary quotations are lower. The Russian markets show no change.

CENTRAL AMERICA

For some time short items in the dispatches have indicated a state of affairs in Central America which, to any other class of people than those that inhabit the Spanish Americas, could not be regarded as altogether compatible with good government. A Panama letter of October 21, detailing the facts with reference to the situation, presents this picture:

"Some serious news up to the 11th has reached here from San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, where robberies, gambling and riots seem to have been the order of the day. All through the month of September last many houses had been robbed, and the police were quite at fault as to the perpetrators of the robberies. Everything left out of doors disappeared before morning. This was particularly the case when a bungo arrived from Grenada. The robbers became so expert that they took off doors and window shutters without alarming the inmates, who only discovered the fact by not having the wherewith to dress themselves in the morning. After one of these bungoes had started up the river the authorities sent and had it overhauled. All sorts of plunder was found in it, enough to stock a warehouse. The bulk of the plunder had been forwarded ahead by the river mail steamer. Some of the crew were arrested and tried.

On the night of the 10th of September, a party of these bandits assembled and set out for the purpose of assassinating the Governor, the Judge and the Public Notary. They were well armed with guns, pistols and machetes. The Judge was not at home, but the Governor, in response to their shouts, opened a window, when he was greeted with a shower of bullets, one of which took effect in his shoulder. The wife and daughter of the Governor were slightly wounded by bullets which entered the house. The Governor returned their fire, and so did the police, one of whom was killed in the Plaza. The robbers then ransacked the Cabildo and broke in the prison doors and liberated the prisoners.

On the morning of October 1 the foreign residents and owners of property met at the house of Hollenback & [illegible] to consider what should be done. A commission was sent to the rioters to ascertain upon what conditions they would surrender. They replied that the Governor and the Judge must resign and others must be appointed, and if they did not resign the rioters would fire the town. The Governor finally agreed to leave his post, and the Acting English Vice Consul was put in charge. At last a force of eighty soldiers came down and restored order in the place.

It is further stated that these rioters are in league with a band of robbers who have rendezvous in Costa Rican territory at Tortuguero, a place near the Colorado river, and that they are making efforts to get a sufficient force of robbers together to make another attack on San Juan del Norte."

Dr. Hunter McGuire takes the opportunity presented in the unveiling of the statue of Stonewall Jackson to attract public attention to some incidents in the last sickness of Jackson, which he communicates to the Richmond Dispatch. The following gives all the general details in a few words:

About half past one he was told that he had but two hours to live, and he answered feebly but firmly, "Very good, it is all right." A few moments before he died he cried out in his delirium: "Order A. P. Hill to prepare for action! Pass the infantry to the front rapidly! Tell Major Hawks—" then stopped, leaving the sentence unfinished. Presently a smile of ineffable sweetness spread itself over his pale face, and then he said quietly and with an expression as if of relief, "Let us cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees," and then without pain or the least struggle his spirit passed.

Senator Stewart on the Proposed Annexation of Mexican Territory

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Senator Stewart was interviewed to-day regarding reported negotiations for cession of Mexican territory. It had been intimated that he and Ben Butler knew more about it than anybody else. Stewart was disposed to be uncommunicative, but stated that he had no doubt the reports published were correct as regarded the plans and actions of individuals and companies having speculative interests in Mexico. He professed to know but little about the matter or the men engaged in it, but had heard a good deal whispered and rumored about it in a vague way as to the parties interested and the objects had in view. He expressed his opinion that no official action had been taken either by the United States or Mexican governments; that the former would not probably take such action without some intimation from Mexico that the latter will take a favorable view of the matter. He considered that there was not the slightest prospect that the government or people of Mexico would consent to any such [illegible] a strong effort would be made with powerful backing to carry out some such scheme, but had no faith in the success of the movement.

A gentleman, resident of this city, formerly private secretary of Maximilian, well posted on Mexican affairs, asserts his conviction that the programme laid out will be carried into execution, and intimated that if Mexico would not consent to part with the territory with the terms heretofore mentioned, means would be found to break up existing friendly relations and so accomplish the desired end. It is also hinted about town that the recent ordering of Admiral Rodgers to Washington has some connection with this affair. Various rumors and theories are on foot about town, but the general impression seems to be that the whole thing is gotten up for speculative purposes.

Mexican Claims.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—In connection with the recent Mexican treaty sensation the Post to-day publishes the report of an interview with a leading lawyer who professes to be thoroughly posted on Mexican affairs. Among other things he stated that the claims upon which the commission is sitting do not constitute a bagatelle compared with the sum total that Mexico owes us. It is not these claims, said he, which are pressing for settlement, but others many times greater. The reporter asked if the gentleman believed that any such treaty as is spoken of had been framed, to which the concise reply was made: "I have not seen it." He added, however: "But I have a client in this city who tells me that he has seen a copy." The gentleman also said: "Inside of twelve months the American flag will be flying down there, and I am not certain but it will be done before we nominate another President. I knew twelve months or more ago what was coming, and I told of it to several of my friends here, and was laughed at for my pains." On the other hand Geo. Penn Johnston, of the Examiner, who has a large claim against Mexico, which has been allowed by the commission, is inclined to look upon the whole thing as a hoax concocted for some unfathomable purpose in this city, and claimed [illegible] on certain papers. Mr. Johnston admitted that the gentleman above referred to had, some twelve or fifteen months ago, outlined to him substantially the same things as have now found publication, and staked his reputation as a prophet that these developments would be made public at about this time. In regard to the reported purchase by speculators of private claims against Mexico, Mr. Johnson said he knew of nothing of the kind going on; certainly he had never received any offers to purchase his claim, and his lawyer in Washington had informed him that there was no market for such claims at the capital or anywhere else that he knew of.

Suicide.

Edward Keller died at the county hospital from pistol shots in the head, fired by his own hands. He was working in a field near San Mateo. His fellow workmen saw him fire one shot which took effect in the forehead. They ran toward him, but were warned off by Keller, who fired two more shots. He was taken up insensible and conveyed to the hospital, where he died.

How the Annexation is Received.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 22.—Upon reception of the report of the probable annexation of Lower California and other Mexican States, the Union published an extra, which created much speculation and comment. Nearly everybody hoped their might be foundation for the rumor, but well informed Mexicans said it was impossible.

The weather has settled down clear, warm and beautiful. Grass is growing finely. The rainfall aggregated about two inches, but coming little at a time, it has done as much good as a harder storm would.

CAMPO, Nov. 22.—News of the proposed annexation of Lower California caused some excitement. Both Americans and Mexicans are gratified.

YUMA, Nov. 22.—Reports received this morning relative to a treaty with Mexico created great excitement. The people of both nations are greatly elated and hope it is true.

MARICOPA WELLS, Nov. 22.—News of the probable annexation of Mexican territory caused quite an excitement, and created favorable comment among all classes.

FLORENCE, Nov. 22.—Profound excitement was created by the reception of news of the cession of Northern Mexican States to the United States. The news spread like wildfire, and both Americans and Mexicans were elated.

Fire at Salt Lake

SALT LAKE, Nov. 22.—Davis, Howe & Co's machine shop, in this city, was burned this morning; loss about $20,000. The fire was caused by the engineer while pouring coal oil from one vessel to another for the purpose of getting up steam, when a light was knocked over, causing an explosion.

Congress will be asked this winter to grant the following subsidies. Times are hard and taxes are high. It is to be hoped that these great expectations will not be realized:

A postscript to a business letter from Willow Forks, Umatilla county, says: "We consider ourselves a part of the commonwealth of Oregon, although somewhat isolated, and we want to know what is going on in the world. We have been blessed with more rain than usual the past fall, and grass came on finely, so that stock was doing well until snow commenced falling on the 14th. The snow is now (Nov. 16th) four inches deep and the weather quite cold. We are praying for a Chinook wind."

PHILADELPHIA

AN OREGON BOY'S FIRST IMPRESSIONS OF THE CITY—WHAT IS LEFT OF THE QUAKERS—CENTENNIAL ITEMS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6, 1875.

It was along in the early fall time, just as the leaves were changing their hue and beginning to fall, that he emerged from the depot of the P. W. & B. R. R. and started leisurely down Broad street, with mouth and eyes wide open, gaping at the signs as he passed and staring at the people, wondering where they all came from and what in the world they all did for a living. He was a young man of mild manners and saffron complexion, from a provincial town away out West, who had brought his carpet sack with him and rather expected to stay until after the Centennial. He came unheralded, and his advent was not marked with any popular demonstration and created not the slightest excitement. He bore all this with indifference, and found a deal of consolation in the thought that Ben Frank lin, who now divides the honors of the city with Wm. Penn, and whose benignant bust looks down complacently from every street corner, had appeared in the role of a poor boy, with a "hunk" of ginger bread under his arm, in a similar way a century and a half before, and had met the same cool reception. Having arrived at his destination his first object was to find a place to "set" his carpet sack—and then leisurely look around for some establishment where they would be willing to accommodate him with all the comforts of a home and accept his society as a partial compensation for his board. With a slight abatement in the terms proposed he finally succeeded in his object, and now, after having reveled for two or three months in the delights of a private boarding house, he has seated himself with pen in hand to give his impressions of Philadelphia and her people.

Times have changed since the printer boy made his first entree, and scores of orchards and cornfields, and quaint old farm houses have been gathered into the maw of this great city. Its boundaries have so expanded that no short time is required to fully grasp it and deal with it either in the concrete or the abstract. Where one knows but little of the subject of which he treats he is only safe in dealing in "glittering generalities," and the character of this effusion will be the best evidence of the meagre knowledge of the writer. To begin at the very foundation, we might treat very briefly of the name of the city, which, with practical old fashioned people, is plain Philadelphia, but people are so poetic in this age that every place of importance must have some romantic pet name to tickle the ear and fancy and indicate some one of its distinctive features, and Philadelphia seems in this particular to have been specially favored. When we mingle with the scholar and inquire the derivation of the name, it becomes the "City of Brotherly Love," and its every utterance smacks of etymology, and Grant White, and every kindred topic, but if we choose to go back to the first conception of the city, and consider the religious tenets of those under whose auspices it was founded, it blossoms out as the "Quaker city," a cosy, comfortable, pleasant title suggestive of sun bonnets and low crowned, broad brimmed hats. With the world there is a natural and universal prejudice in favor of anything bearing this name. Whatever has anything of the Quaker in its composition is accepted always and everywhere with genuine respect, and judging from appearances there is still enough of the Quaker salt here to keep the city in a good state of preservation for many years to come. At almost every turn you are greeted with a vision of Quaker purity, shining out from beneath an old fashioned tunnel of sun bonnet, and now and then the broad brimmed hat looms up into view, though the deceits of this world seem to have somewhat affected the trade in that commodity, and they hardly equal the sun bonnets in numbers; but whenever we do meet them we feel like tipping our more fashionable chapeau and thus paying our respects to the rigid honesty and purity of life which they typify. The broad brimmed hat is its owner's passport to our confidence, and most of us would sooner speak disrespectfully of the equator than to cast a slur upon it. While it remains we have a foundation upon which to base our confidence in humanity, but universal distrust will follow its disappearance. Such are the descendants of Wm. Penn and these the people who share with the city in the Quaker name. But we are living in an exceptional era, and the scholars and the comfortable people who have a reverence for the old titles have been jogged aside and made to give place to Young America, who, inspired and animated with the spirit of '76, has claimed and enforced the privilege of dubbing this the "Centennial city." In a manner becoming a patriotic people we have accepted the situation, and for the present this is the popular and distinctive title. The air is surcharged with Centennial fumes, and the name has appropriated every nook and corner and insinuated itself into the very being of the city and its people. It has been prefixed to every known commodity as the talismanic catch word, and it is blazoned forth in paint and whitewash from the very house tops. No trade or profession seems to have escaped the infection, and we have everything from Centennial billiard balls and dining saloons down to Centennial camphor and gum drops. The most insignificant objects are made to herald by their names the great coming event. One patriotic vendor of pipes and "fine cut" has taken out a patent for a three cent pipe moulded in the shape of the Liberty Bell, with the crack included, and with the patriotic injunction "Proclaim Liberty" etched upon the stem. Even our moon eyed brother from the land of Confucius has been caught in the tide. He is the same exact and painstaking imitator whether his tent is hitched on the Atlantic or on the Pacific slope. [illegible] man who, on being lectured for washing off a short button, acted upon a sarcastic and injudicious hint and returned the succeeding wash without a button, he always construes literally and without regard to the spirit, and having seen the American advertising his Centennial flea powder and roach exterminator, he has caught the infection and followed suit, and the outcome is the "Centennial California Chinese Laundry," where we are assured washing and ironing is done upon the most liberal terms and with neatness and dispatch. Considering that Philadelphia is so completely wrapped up in the great Exposition, it is not singular that she should have taken pains to have it thoroughly advertised, and the American people generally have joined in the work with a lack of sectional jealousy that is most gratifying and argues well for its complete success. It is assured beyond question, and the young man who appeared with his carpet sack at the beginning of the chapter will be followed within the ensuing months by such a host as no American city ever saw. It is such an event as will not again occur in the lifetime of any of the present generation, and as a great national reunion it will be an occasion of absorbing interest to all who pride themselves in the American name. They are waiting with impatience for the raising of the curtain which is to reveal the wonderful visions they have pictured in imagination. They will revel in them until they have met the faded away, and when they have ceased to be a reality and become a thing of the past, the memory of all will serve as an inspiration to keep the faith of the fathers of the Republic. While the people are thus looking forward with impatience, those to whom they have delegated the work of preparation, having been consulting every want and putting forth every effort to secure complete success, and they are able to make such a showing as to give assurance that the confidence in their judgment has not been misplaced. The career of excitement attendant on the Centennial will be but a continuation of what has been their lot for the past two or three months. From this time there will be no cessation until the grand finale. The excitements of a warmly contested political canvass are just beginning to die away, and something was deemed necessary as a stimulus to prevent a too sudden reaction as well as to better prepare them for the approach of the turmoil and hubbub of the Centennial. The need has been supplied by the engagement of Messrs. Moody and Sankey to open a series of revival meetings before the end of the present month. A building on the corner of Thirteenth and Market streets, known as the Pennsylvania R. R. freight depot, and having an area of four acres, is being fitted up for that purpose. The expenses attendant on the meetings have been estimated at $20,000, and an order for 11,000 chairs for use in the service is now being filled. The committee who have matters in charge advertise for a choir of six hundred voices to be chosen from the churches of the city at the recommendation of the different pastors. In a report of the proceedings of one of the committee meetings as published there is a quasi advertisement for three hundred Christian ushers, an intimation that none but the strictly orthodox need apply—perquisites not stated. The figures given will show on what scale the meetings are to be conducted, and the profits of the venture will be of such an [illegible] excitement which has characterized these meetings in the past has led many to discountenance and condemn them, all are willing to accord to the Evangelists and their co-laborers the sincerest motives and to hope from them the very best results. Their meetings will continue here until the first of January, after which time the people will begin to neglect even the demands of religion and exclude everything from their thoughts which has not a direct bearing upon the coming Exposition. What a blank, insipid world this will be to the Philadelphian after he has reaped the coming harvest, recovered from his dreamy reveries and got back once more into the matter of fact sphere in which he formerly moved.

OREGON

Wheat is quoted in the Albany market at 80 cents per bushel.

Nine hundred head of mutton sheep were sold at The Dalles last week, for $1,800.

Dudley Hillery, of Jackson county, was examined last week and pronounced insane.

The lad Towle, sent to the penitentiary from Wasco county, has been pardoned by the governor.

A lady sold 600 lbs of butter in Pendleton last week, which she had hauled a distance of 70 miles.

The stages in Eastern Oregon keep up good time, notwithstanding the bad roads. In Southern Oregon they don't.

On Thursday the governor appointed Robt Newcomb, of Roseburg, Douglas county, a notary public for Oregon.

Fifty head of Indian ponies were purchased near Pendleton last week. The purchaser will drive them East in the spring.

Bruce Wolverton, a graduate of Monmouth college, in this State, has charge of the school at Hydesville, Cal. He is a "Rev." now.

A lunatic named S. B. Starr escaped from the deputy sheriff of Jackson county at Roseburg and had not been captured at last accounts.

A good many teams with goods are on the road from The Dalles to Canyon City, and it is feared they will have a rough time before getting through.

The Summit Mining Company, near Hog'em, Baker county, has a shaft down on the vein of quartz. The ledge is about three feet wide, the rock looks well, and that crushed in the mill yields at the rate of from $12 to $15 per ton. They have a 10th stamp mill in connection with this mine which is run by steam; it will be put to work crushing rock this winter.

The Jacksonville Times says: Jay G. Kelley, superintendent of the Portland Company's mill on Althouse, Josephine county, was in town last week. He reports the mill as being finished and in excellent running order. Rock worked once by the former owners of the ledge has been run over again and yielded $20 to the ton. The company is making preparations to prosecute work on an extensive scale.

The James Gordon mine is situated about five miles east of Baker City and about four miles west of the Virtue mine. There has been considerable work done by the parties who own the quartz ledge. They have a shaft sunk to the depth of eighty or one hundred feet, well timbered. A short time since they had seventy ton of average rock from this mine worked in the Virtue mine mill, and sent the bullion to San Francisco to be minted. Last week they received their returns and found that the seventy ton of rock crushed yielded them the nice little sum of $1,844, or at the rate of $26 34 to the ton.

The Register of the 19th, in speaking of the proposed erection of a woolen mill at Albany, says: Last Saturday five of our most practical business men, realizing the necessity of immediate action, drew up and signed the necessary articles incorporating a company who propose erecting and carrying on the business of a woolen factory. The incorporators are Messrs. J. F. Backensto, S. E. Young, D. M. Thompson, C. P. Burkhart and Thomas Monteith. The capital stock of the company is $12,000, divided into shares of $100 each. We have little doubt that the stock in this enterprise will all be taken at once, so that the company may be organized and proceed at once to business. The enterprise should enlist the hearty support of every citizen of the city and county, as it is an industry which, if prosecuted energetically, will add more than any other single enterprise the growth and prosperity of the city and county.

Joaquin Miller, in a recent lecture at Washington City on "Literary London," paid this tribute to Walt Whitman:

Here in America, here in this high capital, there was once a colossal mind, an old and an honorable old man, with a soul as grand as Homer's—the Milton of America. He walked these streets for years, a plain, brave, old man, who was kind even to your dogs. He had done great service in a humble way in the army; he had written great books, which had been translated in all tongues and read in every land save his own. In consideration thereof he was given a little place under the government, where he could barely earn bread enough for himself and his old mother. He went up and down at work here for years. You mocked at him when you saw him. At last, stricken with palsy, he left the place, leaning upon his staff to go away and die. I saw him but the other day, dying, destitute. Grand old Walt Whitman! Even now it looks like a Titan god. [Applause.] I thank you, that you sympathize with him. Don't tell me that a man gives all his youth and all his years in the pursuit of art, enduring poverty in the face of scorn for nothing. That man shall live! He shall live when you mighty dome of your capitol no longer lifts its rounded shoulders against the circles of time.

On the [illegible] demonstration in Washington over the Republican victories the President was serenaded and made the following speech:

Gentlemen: I am very glad to meet you on this occasion, and to congratulate you on so good a cause of rejoicing to the entire country over the elections of last Tuesday. While the Republican majorities were not great, they were sufficient to accomplish the purpose. The rag baby has been entirely suppressed, and the people now know what kind of money they are to have in the future, and I think we have an assurance that the Republicans will control this government for at least four years longer.

The finances of Wyoming Territory are in very satisfactory condition. There is no public debt, and the treasury has on hand the snug little sum of $8,000. The assessed value of property is nearly $9,000,000, or nearly double what it was two years ago. The legislature of that Territory is now in session at Cheyenne.

The Salt Lake Tribune of the 12th says: News was received in the city last evening of a big snow-slide at Alta, which started from the Irish Tunnel, and carried down with it five men, burying them all as it swept along. Four of them were dug out more or less injured, and one still remained undiscovered up to last accounts.

The Echo says Olympia took a "step forward" on Wednesday of last week. "On that day the northern line of the Pacific Mail steamships terminated its route at this place, McKenny's mill was started up on trial, the first ringing of the academy school bell was heard, and the first shipment was made inaugurating an oyster and clam trade between Olympia and San Francisco."

The Grand Masonic Lodge of Utah convened in Salt Lake last week, Tuesday. The grand officers were all present and all the subordinate lodges were represented. HENRY WILSON

Henry Wilson Vice President of the United States died yesterday morning at Washington City

He was born at Farmington New Hampshire, February 16 1812 His parents being very poor he was denied the advantages of a thorough education, but a natural taste for reading and an insatiable thirst for knowledge urged him to seize every opportunity for self-culture, and he became at last for all practical purposes one of the most thoroughly educated men in the nation He was apprenticed, at the age of 10, to a farmer in his native town After attaining his majority he went to Natick, Massachusetts where he learned the trade of a shoe maker, at which he worked most of his time afterwards till the cares of public life rendered it impossible for him to continue that business His first political endeavor noted in the Cyclopædia was in the campaign of 1840, during which he made more than sixty speeches for Harrison. He was afterwards elected three times to the assembly and four times to the senate of Massachusetts, and in 1845 was selected along with the poet Whittier to carry to Washington and present the [illegible] petition from Massa- He was always an active and prominent leader of the anti slavery party He edited for two years—from 1848 to 1850—the Boston Daily Republican, making it one of the ablest anti slavery journals in the country He was a member of the Massachusetts constitutional convention of 1853, for his own town and for the town of Berlin, and the same year was the Free Soil candidate for Governor of the State In 1855 he was elected U S Senator to succeed Edward Everett, and was reelected by a unanimous vote in 1859 As a Senator he was an active and able opponent of the slave power and during the war one of the pillars of the Republic As chairman of the military committee he matured and carried through Congress the law authorizing President Lincoln to put 500 000 volunteers into the field, as well as other military measures of great importance All through the great reconstruction struggle he was one of the most careful of those statesmen who considered it their first duty to see that the advantages which liberty had gained in the war should not be frittered away But when all these were secured, he was among the foremost in endeavoring to heal the wounds of the war and restore fraternal relations between the North and the South Since his election as Vice President in 1872, he has been so much out of health that his labors have been subject to frequent interruptions, but he has found time to finish his great historical work commenced some years ago on the "Rise and Fall of the Slave Power in America," which, if he had done no other public service, would entitle him to the gratitude of the country and place him among her great men He goes to his reward mourned by the entire nation

THE INFLATIONISTS AND THE "SICK MAN"

It is amusing to see how the American newspapers make game of the decree of the Sublime Porte, that half the interest on the bonds of the Turkish government shall be paid in new bonds The scheme is laughed at as a good joke on the people who have parted with their money on the faith of the promises contained in these bonds Aha they say, that is what you get by trusting a man dead on his feet, and a Turk at that!" Well sure enough it is a ludicrous outcome for the operations of men distinguished for their shrewdness in financial matters as the great bankers are supposed to be But did any of the people who are laughing so heartily at the spectacle, ever take the trouble to institute a comparison between the actual condition of affairs in Turkey and the condition in which the inflationists are endeavoring to place our government? What better is an irredeemable American greenback than an irredeemable Turkish coupon bond? What better Kelley's interconvertibles than the Grand Vizier's unconvertibles? What better America's promises than Turkey's promises, if it is understood neither are to be performed? It is said the Ottoman Empire is sick—especially and dangerously sick in its financial department Why is it sick? Promises cost nothing The Turk must be poor indeed, if he can not carry on a printing establishment with which to manufacture promises to pay And why are not these as good money for Turkey as our promises are in America? Because ours are understood to be a temporary expedient to be replaced at an early day with actual money or which is the same thing to become exchangeable for actual money at the option of the holders, while the promises of the Turk no matter what form they take are known to be beyond his power of fulfillment Let it be understood that our government's promises are to be discharged with new promises and we and the Turk and Mr Wilkins Micawber stand at once on exactly the same ground

WAIT FOR THE OTHER SIDE

The times are fearfully out of joint with the whisky ring For a while it was only the manufacturers and venders of the crooked, that were under fire" the discovery which overtook him not reaching any nearer to headquarters [illegible] few gaugers [illegible] little importance to compromise the standing of high officials [illegible] the parties [illegible] pleaded guilty [illegible] prospect appeared fair for the investigation to stop short [illegible] the facts [illegible] circumstances [illegible] offense [illegible] No doubt this termination of the cases would have satisfied the country generally for there was really no very deeply rooted suspicion of complicity in high official circles Then, too, the last three years have presented a [illegible] continuous scene of investigation and unearthing of official corruption and rascality that the people would be thankful for a respite though it might be but brief It would be a positive relief to have a few more cases such as that of Gen Howard for instance, wherein thorough investigations ended in perfect acquittal of all charges of misconduct, and that without a resort to the excuse of incompetency, by which the Red Cloud commission escaped the necessity of bringing in a verdict of guilty against almost half the Indian bureau Although the humor of the people of the United States does not tolerate official malfeasance, and wish every serious charge investigated still we are persuaded there is a positive feeling of gratification when it appears likely that a charge against any official must fail for want of evidence Hence we say the country would have been quite satisfied if the prosecutions for the whisky frauds had ended with the conviction of the parties included in the disclosures anterior to the McDonald trial But now the cat is out of the bag it will hardly be possible for the implicated parties at Washington to satisfy the country without making a complete showing If they are unjustly accused, they will find it necessary to make that fact appear either by breaking down the testimony against them or by bringing forward affirmative matter in explanation Their showing in the premises will be waited for with much interest and with a very general desire among right minded and right hearted people that it may be a perfect defense

Quite a gathering of French [illegible] literary celebrities met at a banquet given by the Franco American Union in Paris on the 8th of November Ministers Washburne and Schenck, General Sickles and Colonel Forney were also present Minister Washburne made a lengthy speech, in which he traced the long and cordial friendship existing between France and America Mr Washburne promised the hearty co operation of the Americans in the project started in France, of erecting in New York harbor a monument in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of American Independence The French propose to furnish the monument provided the Americans furnish the pedestal It has been suggested by the French that a colossal figure emblematic of America welcoming all foreigners to our shores be erected on a small island in the harbor of New York

The Tax Payers Association of Brooklyn is composed of some of the largest property owners of that city These men have resolved to try to prevent the waste of public money by the Ring in Brooklyn They have for a year past been secretly collecting evidence against guilty officials and are now about to institute legal proceedings against them Affidavits have been sent to the Attorney General of New York upon which to commence action for money stolen from the public The Association is in earnest, and will do its utmost to bring the frauds to light and the guilty parties to justice

After a careful calculation of the probable number of votes for and against the government in the French Assembly the conclusion arrived at is that voting by districts will be determined upon in preference to voting by departments This is a triumph for the present Ministry

It is rumored that the Musselmen of Herzegovina are holding secret meetings for preparing for a general massacre of the Christians at Mostar Bonna and other localities These rumors are disquieting the stock market in London

Death of Rev. Mr Woodward's health had been quite poor for more than a year past With the hope of improving his rapidly declining health, Mr Woodward resigned his charge on the Sound last summer and at his own request was transferred to the California Conference. But these precautionary measures only delayed the inevitable messenger for a short time. Death came a few days ago and he passed tranquilly away to the spirit land In life, Mr. Woodward was a consistent Christian gentleman beloved by all who knew him, and he has gone to reap the rewards of a long life earnestly devoted to the cause of religion

SINKING OF THE YAKIMA.

Capt C Hopkins, U S marshal of Washington Territory, was a passenger on board the steamer Yakima when she sunk above Celilo He arrived in the city last evening and has kindly furnished us the following particulars of the disaster

The O S N Co's steamer Yakima on her down trip at mid day on Saturday the 20th inst, struck a sunken rock on John Day's rapids, breaking in her bottom, with a terrible crash from her bow to midships The steamer had a carrying capacity of 160 tons and with wheat flour oats etc was fully loaded At the time of the accident there were on board about thirty passengers among them several women and children By the rush of waters into her lower hold (which is divided into several compartments, and which, by-the-bye saved the boat and entire cargo from becoming a total loss, and the passengers from drowning) the fire was immediately extinguished and bare steam and headway of the boat left to make the shore

Captain J I Stump one of the most experienced and skillful pilots of the river was at the wheel and without excitement or hesitation selected the safest and every way best spot on the Oregon shore to beach his boat his brother John F Stump taking the most advantageous position on the deck to inform the captain of condition of the sinking boat As the boat struck the rocky shore bows on in the swiftest part of the rapids and before the stern swung round with the force of the current, Mr Joseph Kinney a passenger and also a deck hand of many years experience in river navigation jumped overboard into twenty feet of water and swam ashore with the intention of taking and making fast to the shore a line if necessary But it was soon found no shore lines were needed, as the boat was well made fast to the rocky bottom and she soon settled snugly into the hard bed that had been selected for her This done the captain ordered the small boat lowered and immediately the work of sending the passengers ashore commenced allowing no man to get into the boat till all the women and children were safely landed

The purser [illegible] of the work, and after having landed all passengers and taken care of all papers money and valuables entrusted to his custody he bargained with a passenger for one of the horses thrown overboard from the boat and without waiting for overcoat or mittens started through the snow and over a mountain trail, twenty miles for Celilo to telegraph the condition of the boat and summon the aid of another boat from Wallula

Too much praise in words cannot be given the officers and men who represented the company on this disastrous and lucky occasion By prompt and efficient efforts on the part of the captain and others employed on the boat all the passengers were made comfortable on the shore with an abundant supply of food and bedding during the thirty hours' stay on the shore At the time the telegram from Celilo reached Wallula the steamer Owyhee was loaded at that place with grain, nearly all of which was again transferred to the wharfboat and early Sunday morning started for the wreck and came alongside the Yakima at about 12 o'clock M same day During the afternoon of Sunday all passengers wagons horses baggage and first freight were transferred from shore and the sunken boat to the Owyhee and by the latter all reached Celilo at dark same day

The present condition of the Yakima is at the time the passengers left her she was fast on the rocks as when she first settled down, careened from the shore at an angle of about 15 degrees A small portion of the main deck forward, being out of water and all the upper part of her cargo, the whole length of the boat dry A considerable portion of the cargo between the aft gangways, slid into the river among which was several hundred dollars worth of bacon Prior to the arrival of the Owyhee 75 or 80 tons of freight had been carried ashore and about 30 tons more was transferred to the Owyhee and carried to Celilo The damage to the cargo of the Yakima will probably reach 25 per cent of the entire value

The following marks were noticed on the freight J S Dalles oats S dia F P B wheat M B & Co San Francisco, bacon G M San Francisco, flour, A & L P flour dia M A J D wheat, A C N hides dia A L, flour W N S A & L in circle Portland, wheat E L B, wheat F Portland flour C & M, flour, R J McL, A & I Portland, wheat

ANOTHER WRECK.

THE HULL OF AN UNKNOWN VESSEL SEEN FLOATING KEEL UP OFF THE COLUMBIA RIVER BAR SUPPOSED TO BE A SCHOONER.

During Saturday forenoon a man who was traveling along the beach some distance north of Cape Hancock, saw on looking seaward, what he at first supposed was the huge trunk of a tree which was being tossed about on the waves On inspecting the object more carefully the man came to the conclusion that it was entirely too large for a tree He looked for considerable time endeavoring to ascertain with some degree of certainty what it could be, but failed to do so owing to the great distance From the appearance of the strange object he at length concluded it was the hull of some wrecked vessel Reaching the lighthouse at the cape the man called the attention of the keeper to what he had seen A powerful glass was procured and the face of the troubled waters closely scanned for a long distance to the northward At length the black object was descried and on a careful examination proved to be the capsized hull of some wrecked craft Information of this fact was conveyed to Astoria as soon as practicable The steam tug Gen Canby happened to be lying at the wharf at the time, and under command of Capt J H D Gray, she steamed down on an inspecting cruise It was about the middle of the afternoon when the Gen Canby left Astoria and she returned after 5 o'clock the same evening Captain Gray reports that he crossed the bar and approached to within a short distance of the wreck The sea was so rough at the time that it was impracticable to get very close However the tug approached near enough to enable those on board to discover that it was the hull of some vessel lying keel up Capt Gray did not approach near enough to read the name of the wrecked vessel but from appearances he is of the opinion that she is a schooner about 125 feet long A heavy gale was blowing, and the wreck was drifting rapidly to the north Ere this the hull is near Shoalwater Bay or stranded on the beach Search will doubtless be made the name of the vessel learned, and if possible the fate of those on board The wreck came from the south and it is more than likely that the ill starred craft was foundered some distance down the coast during the late heavy gales and all on board have in all human probability found ocean graves Full particulars, it is hoped will be obtained soon

ANNUAL REPORT

Of Chinese Mission School, Portland, Ogn., for the Year ending Nov 15, 1875.

As early as August, 1873 the feasibility of establishing a Chinese Mission was taken into consideration by several members of the Baptist Church, and Rev A R Medbury in behalf of the church wrote to San Francisco to ascertain if a thoroughly qualified Chinese convert could be found who would preach to the Chinese of Portland but without success The following May the correspondence was resumed and Bro Dong Gong personally known to our then pastor as a devoted Christian who after a public profession of his faith in Christ had returned to China that he might thoroughly familiarize himself with the literature of his own country, was found ready to accept the position But a change in the church pastorate was pending, and the mission work deferred till the arrival of the pastor elect Rev D J Pierce, who came with settled convictions in regard to the work, and early in October 1874 brought the subject again before the church, stating that "the object aimed at was the conversion of the Chinese"

From this meeting, October 9th, may be dated the first united effort which was followed by the appointment of a committee the appropriation of funds from the Sunday school treasury a correspondence with Bro L Z Simmons, Baptist Chinese missionary of San Francisco the opening of a subscription book by Rev D J Pierce, of $40 per month for missionary's salary the securing of rooms etc On the 11th of November the committee first met at the parsonage to confer with Bros L Z Simmons and Dong Gong

To human sight the project was a dream to the eye of faith a certainty, for the spirit of Him who made the human heart had spoken and His children know that though China is ten thousand miles across a trackless sea, the Chinaman is a neighbor

November 14 1874 the school opened under the direction of Bro W M Dean, manager Sister L A Mitchell leading the music Bro Dong Gong missionary and interpreter, worked faithfully for months, with no remuneration except the consciousness of doing good to a needy class groping for the light Bro L Z Simmons gave practical illustrations of his method of instruction for one week, and with this limited preparation the school commenced with 75 Chinamen present, and had on an average, 45 during the first six months, At the close of this time a Chinese concert was held, when a lengthy report of the work was presented Ten members of the school had publicly professed faith in Christ Twenty had formed themselves into a Christian Knowledge Society to study the Bibles and the doctrines of the Christian religion and believing a sound body necessary to a clear intellect they prohibited gambling drinking and opium smoking in the society

Their meetings were orderly and earnest and four of their members have since united with the church

As a preliminary to the organization of a church a council was called to ordain our beloved brother, Dong Gong to the work of the ministry The testimony of his willingness to-day and to suffer all things for his Master's sake gave assurance of his deep Christian experience, and his clear views of gospel truth Many eyes were wet with tears as he told of his sufferings, caused by his heathen father after he professed Christianity He was ordained to the gospel ministry on the 2d of June, and gave abundant proof of his ability and earnestness at the Willamette Baptist Association held immediately after while his continued success among his brethren has removed every doubt from the most skeptical, concerning his calling and labors

We cannot refrain from mentioning the unremitted works of Bro W M Dean, not only during the sessions of the school, but in labor and money to rescue from impositions injustice etc, so many of these helpless ones

The success of the Sunday school must be attributed to the patient and faithful supervision of Bro and Sister Traver aided by many of our best citizens who have tendered their services in teaching the rudiments of the Christian religion from time to time

This school was organized Nov 15th 1874 with twelve scholars, but under the kind, patient and unremitting efforts of Bro Traver and his devoted wife, it has steadily increased to an average of over forty scholars, over fifty being often present at these professedly Christian exercises showing their willingness not only to be taught the language but the religion of America It is a matter of real regret that family bereavement called Mrs Traver to her Eastern home and business engagements requiring the absence of Mr Traver during much of the ensuing year have compelled the church to accept their resignation and give their respective charges to others

Yet we congratulate ourselves in having found an experienced Sunday school worker, Dr S J Barber, willing to bear the burden for the coming year, as superintendent and several enthusiastic Christian workers of different churches glad to share his labors

Not only has Sister L A Mitchell given her evenings to instruction, but her days, to the numerous services connected with the interests of the school and the spiritual welfare of its members Especially would we remind her that she is appointed by the church to receive and apply such funds as may be contributed for the maintenance of Bro Sam Ho now studying at the McMinnville college while preparing for the ministry

As proof of the appreciation of her untiring, and efficient labors for the Chinese of Portland we gratefully refer to the successful efforts of Mrs Mack and Mr Dr Thompson who have secured $240 to be expended for her benefit during the ensuing year

We most gratefully appreciate the faithful instructions of Bro H Raymond through the year,—the practical lessons of Mrs Mack, both in her class and in a general geographical exercise with the school, the nightly sacrifice of Mr Woodward himself a student the teachings of Mrs Jordan till her failing health compelled her removal from the State

After the school had been in session several months it was deemed advisable to pay the regular teachers $1 per month [illegible] The plan has succeeded so well it is continued though several of the teachers have chosen to donate the moneys paid by their classes to meet general expenses

We expected irregular attendance and consequent loss of labor but the scholars are prompt and regular when we consider their various avocations Their reverential attention to the words of our Missionary after class evinces a desire to know whereof he would impart in striking contrast with more favored but highly cultured students

When it is considered that the Chinese have but four inharmonious notes in their music and that our school is still composed of adults whose voices seem fixed their progress in singing is remarkable and the readiness with which they perform on the organ can only be explained by their imitative faculty and their enjoyment of this novel mode of recreation

The testimony of those baptized to the need felt in their own hearts for a Saviour was very marked in speech and gesture To the searching questions of Senator Dolph Prof Johnson and others most satisfactory replies were given In several instances trying to the spirit to endure have they borne persecution Several lost situations on which they depended for support and one [illegible] cruel scourging, publicly [illegible] God [illegible]

[illegible]

Second [illegible] civilizing influence over [illegible] the majority of whom have already renounced the idol worship of their ancestors and are ready to be led to the light

Third [illegible] entire Chin[illegible] of Portland The equality of the female sex alone as recognized in the part assigned to our lady teachers, has a powerful influence upon the heathen mind.

Fourth—The appropriation of $1,100 baptized with earnest prayer and utilized with self denying labor to the spread of Christ's word among the most populous nation of the earth fulfilling the prophecy of Isaiah xlix, 12—"Behold these shall come from far, and lo, these from the north and from the west; and these from the land of Sinim."

Fifth—An increase of religious interest in our own congregation in accordance with a law long since recognized in England, that mission labor always increases home efficiency

In closing the report made at the Chinese concert, six months since, it was said "This work is growing in extent and interest and is now thrown on the sympathy of the Christian public for that moral and financial support without which it is impossible to proceed" To night we are gratified to report the work has continued to grow in extent and interest and hearts filled with love to God and love to man are knit in closer bonds by labor and sacrifice

At a regular meeting called for the purpose Thursday Nov 5th 1875 the following officers were elected to manage the Chinese Mission School for the ensuing year, beginning Nov 1 1875

CITY.

DEATH OF REV. MR. WOODWARD.—Painful intelligence has just been received here to the effect that Rev Luther T Woodward departed this life a few days since at Pescadero California. For years past deceased has been connected with the Methodist Episcopal Conference of Oregon and Washington Territory. He was principal of the Santiam Academy at Lebanon for some time and subsequently was one of the Professors at the Willamette University. Mr. Woodward's health had been quite poor for more than a year past. With the hope of improving his rapidly declining health, Mr Woodward resigned his charge on the Sound last summer and at his own request was transferred to the California Conference. But these precautionary measures only delayed the inevitable messenger for a short time. Death came a few days ago and he passed tranquilly away to the spirit land. In life, Mr. Woodward was a consistent Christian gentleman beloved by all who knew him, and he has gone to reap the rewards of a long life earnestly devoted to the cause of religion.

ENLISTED FOR LIFE.—Captain Stephen G Whipple of the First Cavalry who has been stationed at Walla Walla for some time, returned to this city on the last steamer. He has been on a visit East for several months and during his absence has obtained a recruit, who will not muster out of the service while life shall last. Before returning to his post of duty Capt Whipple wooed and won and wed one of the fairest and most charming daughters of the city of Baltimore. Shortly after the nuptials were celebrated the happy couple started on a long bridal tour homeward, reaching here safely a few days since. After receiving the hearty congratulations of his brother officers here, Capt Whipple and bride started yesterday morning for Walla Walla.

THE ENTERTAINMENT.—This (Tuesday) evening a literary and musical entertainment is to be given at the rooms of the Y M C A, of which fact the public will please take notice. A programme of an attractive character including much variety—will be presented, which gives promise of proving both interesting and profitable to those who attend. A number of well known amateurs have kindly [illegible] their services and will appear this evening, among whom we may mention Mrs C A Dolph, Mrs. H C Paige Mrs J D Eaton, Mrs Lamberson, the Chattin sisters, Rev Mr Betcher of The Dalles the sweet singer, Amphion Glee Club Captain R H Tuttle, Charles Lancaster, Master Bevans and Captain Wilkinson.

CONTEMPLATED BUILDINGS.—We understand that Mr. Jas. Terwilliger, who is the owner of the land on which stand the row of wooden buildings at the southeast corner of the block at the intersection of First and Morrison streets, proposes early next spring to tear down or remove the old tenements, preparatory to erecting a large brick structure. The building Mr Terwilliger contemplates constructing will be a handsome three story brick 100 feet deep on Morrison, and 50 feet wide on First street. It is also Mr Strowbridge's intention to commence the erection of a large brick building at the corner of First and Alder [illegible] as soon as good weather will permit next spring.

GEN. MICHLER'S DEPARTURE.—Gen Michler, who has been ordered East to be assigned [illegible] district, not yet designated, will not leave Portland before the 15th of January. Col Wilson who has been assigned to this lighthouse district will leave New York on the 5th of next month for Portland. He will come by water, via the Isthmus, and will not arrive here before some time in January. Gen Michler cannot leave here until the arrival of his successor, and after the office has been formally turned over.

MORE BODIES REPORTED FOUND.—The Olympia Echo of the 21st says: 'We learn that two more bodies have been picked up from the Pacific [illegible], and that one of them was Judge Sullivan of the Gold District. We have been unable to learn the name of the other but it was supposed to be that of a young man from San Francisco from letters found on his [illegible]. One informant also states that the [illegible] was met between Ports Gamble and Madison, in a water logged and disabled condition, but in tow of the Gussie Telfair.'

CHINESE CONCERT.—The concert given by the pupils of the Chinese Mission School at the Baptist church, last evening, was well attended and the audience was highly interested in the various exercises. The Chinese who took part in the concert, in the way of speaking, reading and singing showed much advancement in their efforts to learn, and convinced all who heard them of their ability to master an English study. The class in geography answered the various questions very promptly.

AFTER THE ROBBERS.—Col H C Paige general agent for Wells Fargo & Co started a few days since for Boise City. He goes for the purpose of instituting a thorough search for the highwaymen who stopped the stage near Boise City on the morning of the 10th inst, and robbed W F & Co's treasure box and the mail of over $3 000. As yet no clew has been obtained of the robbers.

SINKING OF THE YAKIMA.

Capt C Hopkins, U S marshal of Washington Territory, was a passenger on board the steamer Yakima when she sunk above Celilo. He arrived in the city last evening, and has kindly furnished us the following particulars of the disaster

The O S N Co's steamer Yakima, on her down trip, at mid day on Saturday, the 20th inst, struck a sunken rock on John Day's rapids, breaking in her bottom with a terrible crash from her bow to midship. The steamer had a carrying capacity of 160 tons and with wheat flour oats etc—was fully loaded. At the time of the accident there were on board about thirty passengers among them several women and children. By the rush of waters into her hold (which is divided into several compartments, and which, by the bye saved the boat and entire cargo from becoming a total loss and the passengers from drowning) the fire was immediately extinguished and bare steam and headway of the boat left to make the shore

Captain J J Stump one of the most experienced and skillful pilots of the river was at the wheel and without excitement or hesitation selected the safest and every way best spot on the Oregon shore to beach his boat his brother John F Stump taking the most advantageous position on the deck to inform the captain of condition of the sinking boat. As the boat struck the rocky shore bows on in the swiftest part of the rapids and before the stern swung round with the force of the current Mr Joseph Kinney a passenger and also a deck hand of many years experience in river navigation jumped overboard into twenty feet of water and swam ashore with the intention of taking and making fast to the shore a line if necessary. But it was soon found no shore lines were needed, as the boat was well made fast to the rocky bottom and she soon settled snugly into the hard bed that had been selected for her. This done, the captain ordered the small boat lowered and immediately the work of sending the passengers ashore commenced, allowing no men to get into the boat till all the women and children were safely landed

The [illegible] of the work and after having landed all passengers and taken care of all papers money and valuables entrusted to his custody, he bargained with a passenger for one of the horses thrown overboard from the boat and without waiting for overcoat or mittens started through the snow and over a mountain trail, twenty miles for Celilo, to telegraph the condition of the boat and summon the aid of another boat from Wallula

Too much praise in words cannot be given the officers and men who represented the company on this disastrous and lucky occasion. By prompt and efficient efforts on the part of the captain and others employed on the boat all the passengers were made comfortable on the shore with an abundant supply of food and bedding during the thirty hours' stay on the shore. At the time the telegram from Celilo reached Wallula the steamer Owyhee was loaded at that place with grain nearly all of which was again transferred to the wharfboat, and early Sunday morning started for the wreck and came alongside the Yakima at about 12 o'clock M same day. During the afternoon of Sunday all passengers wagons horses baggage and fast freight were transferred from shore and the sunken boat to the Owyhee and by the latter all reached Celilo at dark same day

The present condition of the Yakima or at the time the passengers left her she was fast on the rocks as when she first settled down, careened from the shore at an angle of about 15 degrees. A small portion of the main deck forward being out of water and all the upper part of her cargo the whole length of the boat, dry. A considerable portion of the cargo between the aft gangways slid into the river among which was several hundred dollars worth of bacon. Prior to the arrival of the Owyhee 75 or 80 tons of freight had been carried ashore and about 30 tons more was transferred to the Owyhee and carried to Celilo. The damage to the cargo of the Yakima will probably reach 25 per cent of the entire value

The following marks were noticed on the freight: I J S, Dalles oats S dia F P B wheat M B & Co San Francisco, bacon G M, San Francisco, flour, A & L P, flour dia M A J D wheat A I N hides dia A L flour W N S A & I in circle Portland wheat E L B wheat F Portland flour C & M, flour R & McL A & L Portland, wheat

THE HULL OF AN UNKNOWN VESSEL SEEN LYING KEEL UP OFF THE COLUMBIA RIVER BAR SUPPOSED TO BE A SCHOONER.

During Saturday forenoon a man who was traveling along the beach some distance north of Cape Hancock saw on looking seaward, what he at first supposed was the huge trunk of a tree which was being tossed about on the waves. On inspecting the object more carefully the man came to the conclusion that it was entirely too large for a tree. He looked for considerable time endeavoring to ascertain with some degree of certainty what it could be but failed to do so owing to the great distance. From the appearance of the strange object he at length concluded it was the hull of some wrecked vessel. Reaching the lighthouse at the cape the man called the attention of the keeper to what he had seen. A powerful glass was procured and the face of the troubled waters closely scanned for a long distance to the northward. At length the black object was descried and on a careful examination proved to be the capsized hull of some wrecked craft. Information of this fact was conveyed to Astoria as soon as practicable. The steam tug Gen Canby happened to be lying at the wharf at the time, and under command of Capt [illegible] Gray she steamed down on an inspecting cruise. It was about the middle of the afternoon when the Gen Canby left Astoria and she returned after 5 o'clock the same evening. Captain Gray reports that he crossed the bar and approached to within a short distance of the wreck. The sea was so rough at the time that it was impracticable to get very close. However the tug approached near enough to enable those on board to discover that it was the hull of some vessel lying keel up. Capt Gray did not approach near enough to read the name of the wrecked vessel but from appearances he is of the opinion that she is a schooner about 125 feet long. A heavy gale was blowing and the wreck was drifting rapidly to the north. From this the hull is near Shoalwater Bay or stranded on the beach. Search will doubtless be made, the name of the vessel learned, and if possible the fate of those on board. The wreck came from the south and it is more than likely that the ill starred craft was foundered some distance down the coast during the late heavy gales and all on board have in all human probability found ocean graves. Full particulars it is hoped, will be obtained soon

ANNUAL REPORT

Of Chinese Mission School, Portland, Ogn, for the Year ending Nov 14, 1875.

As early as August 1873 the feasibility of establishing a Chinese Mission was taken into consideration by several members of the Baptist Church and Rev A R Medbury in behalf of the church wrote to San Francisco to ascertain if a thoroughly qualified Chinese convert could be found who would preach to the Chinese of Portland but with no success. The following May the correspondence was resumed and Bro Dong Gong, personally known to our then pastor as a devoted Christian who after a public profession of his faith in Christ, had returned to China that he might thoroughly familiarize himself with the literature of his own country was found ready to accept the position. But a change in the church pastorate was pending, and the mission work deferred till the arrival of the pastor elect Rev D J Pierce who came with settled convictions in regard to the work and early in October 1874 brought the subject again before the church stating that the object aimed at was the conversion of the Chinese

From this meeting October 8th may be dated the first united effort which was followed by the appointment of a committee the appropriation of funds from the Sunday school treasury, a correspondence with Bro L A Simmons Baptist Chinese missionary of San Francisco the opening of a subscription book by Rev D J Pierce of $40 per month for missionary's salary, the securing of rooms etc. On the 11th of November the committee first met at the parsonage to confer with Bros L A Simmons and Dong Gong.

To human sight the project was Utopian to the eye of faith, a certainty for the spirit of Him who made the human heart had spoken and His children know that though China is ten thousand miles across a trackless sea the Chinaman is a neighbor.

November 13, 1874 the school opened under the direction of Bro W M Dean manager, Sister L A Mitchell, leading the music. Bro Dong Gong, missionary and interpreter worked faithfully for months with no remuneration except the consciousness of doing good to a needy class groping for the light. Bro L A Simmons gave practical illustrations of his method of instruction for one week, and with this limited preparation the school commenced with 75 Chinamen present, and had on an average, 45 during the first six months. At the close of this time a Chinese concert was held when a lengthy report of the work was presented. Ten members of the school had publicly professed faith in Christ. Twenty had formed themselves into a Christian Knowledge Society to study the Bible and the doctrines of the Christian religion and believing a sound body necessary to a clear intellect they prohibited gambling drinking and opium smoking in the society.

Their meetings were orderly and earnest and four of their members have since united with the church

As a preliminary to the organization of a church a council was called to ordain our beloved brother Dong Gong to the work of the ministry. The testimony of his willingness to go and to suffer all things for his Master's sake, gave assurance of his deep Christian experience and his clear views of gospel truth. Many eyes were wet with tears as he told of his sufferings, caused by his heathen father after he professed Christianity. He was ordained to the gospel ministry on the 3d of June, and gave abundant proof of his ability and earnestness at the Willamette Baptist Association held immediately after while his continued success among his brethren has removed every doubt from the most skeptical, concerning his calling and labors

We cannot refrain from mentioning the unremitted works of Bro W M Dean not only during the sessions of the school but in labor and money to rescue from impositions injustice, etc so many of these helpless ones

The success of the Sunday school must be attributed to the patient and faithful supervision of Bro and Sister Traver aided by many of our best citizens who have tendered their services in teaching the rudiments of the Christian religion from time to time

This school was organized Nov 15th 1874 with twelve scholars, but under the kind, patient and unremitting efforts of Bro Traver and his devoted wife, it has steadily increased to an average of over forty scholars over fifty being often present at these professedly Christian exercises, showing their willingness not only to be taught the language but the religion of America. It is a matter of real regret that family bereavement called Mrs Traver to her Eastern home and business engagements requiring the absence of Mr Traver during much of the ensuing year have compelled the church to accept their resignation and give their respective charges to others

Yet we congratulate ourselves in having found an experienced Sunday school worker, Dr S J Barber, willing to bear the burden for the coming year as superintendent, and several enthusiastic Christian workers of different churches glad to share his labors

Not only has Sister L A Mitchell given her evenings to instruction, but her days, to the numerous services connected with the interests of the school and the spiritual welfare of its members. Especially would we remember that she is appointed by the church to receive and apply such funds as may be contributed for the maintenance of Bro Sum Bo now studying at the McMinnville college while preparing for the ministry

As proof of the appreciation of learning, and other attributes of the Chinese of Portland we gratefully refer to the successful efforts of Mrs Mack and Mrs Dr Thomson, who have secured $[illegible] to be expended for her benefit during the ensuing year.

We must gratefully appreciate the faithful instructions of Bro H Kaufman throughout the year—the practical lessons of Miss Mack, both in [illegible] and in a general geographical exercise with the school: the [illegible] sacrifice of Mr Woodward himself a student the teachings of Mrs Jordan till her failing health compelled her removal from the State

After the school had been in session several months it was deemed advisable to pay the regular teachers [illegible] each scholar. The plan has succeeded so well it is continued though several of the teachers have chosen to donate the moneys paid by their classes to meet general expenses

We expected irregular attendance and consequent loss of labor but the scholars are prompt and regular when we consider their various avocations. Their reverent attention to the words of our Missionary after class evinces a desire to know whereof he would impart, in striking contrast with more favored and highly cultured students

When it is considered that the Chinese have but four or five [illegible] notes in their music and that our school is chiefly composed of adults whose voices seem [illegible] their progress in singing is remarkable and the readiness with which they perform [illegible] can only be explained by their intuitive faculty and their enjoyment of this novel mode of recreation

The testimony of those baptized [illegible] and others [illegible] satisfactory [illegible] the searching questions of Senator Dolph [illegible] of Johnson [illegible]

[illegible]

Third [illegible] entire [illegible] equality of the female sex alone is recognized in the part assigned to our lady teachers has a powerful influence upon the heathen mind

Fourth—The appropriation of $1,100, baptized with earnest prayer and vitalized with self denying labor to the spread of Christ's word among the most populous nation of the earth fulfilling the prophecy of Isaiah xlix, 12—'Behold, these shall come from far, and lo these from the north and from the west and these from the land of Sinim.'

Fifth—An increase of religious interest in our own congregation, in accordance with a law long since recognized in England, that mission labor always increases home efficiency

In closing the report made at the Chinese concert, six months since, it was said: 'This work is growing in extent and interest and is now thrown on the sympathy of the Christian public for that moral and financial support without which it is impossible to proceed.' To night we are gratified to report the work has continued to grow in extent and interest and hearts filled with love to God and love to man are knit in closer bonds by labor and sacrifice

At a regular meeting called for the purpose Thursday Nov 4th 1875, the following officers were elected to manage the Chinese Mission School for the ensuing year beginning Nov 1 1875

THE NEW TURKISH PROMISES.

It must have been exceedingly pleasant to Baron Reuter and the rest of the investors in "the Sick Man's" paper to get the following official notification from the Grand Vizier's financial minister:

"You have learnt from the declarations of the sublime porte the express wish of the imperial government to maintain in all their integrity the rights and privileges of the Imperial Ottoman bank which flow from the stipulations of its official conventions. You have been no less completely informed, through the legal explanations of his highness the grand vizier, with regard to the imperative necessity for the financial measure which has been decreed by the sublime porte on the subject of the mode of payment of the interest and sinking fund of the public debt of the empire, which is to be applied for a period of five years, dating from the present time. This measure advantages us to the treasury, because it enables it to balance its budget in a very short space of time, and to make it thenceforth secure from all the preoccupations, all the uncertainties, by which it never fails to be assailed when each coupon falls due, and which would have ended by totally ruining its credit to the greater detriment of the creditors of the state. This measure, I say, protects, on the other hand, the interests of the holders of our funds in this [illegible] guarantees for the payment of what is due to them without awaiting the realisation of onerous loans of which the sole result has been to swell more and more the deficit of our budget, and gravely to compromise the interests and dignity of the sublime porte. You are also aware that the imperial [illegible] of the syndics, who will [illegible] people under the supervision and with the cooperation of the imperial bank, the revenues from customs from salt and tobacco, as well as the Egyptian tribute, and in case these are insufficient, the amount yielded by the sheep tax. To prevent any uncertainty that might arise in this respect, and in order to carry out a moment earlier the most important part of the financial measure referred to, namely, the designation in figures of the guarantees above specified, so as to insure the regularity of the new mode of payment, I herewith, by order of his highness the grand vizier, beg you, gentlemen, to concert immediately with the committees of the bank at Paris and London, in order that they may, in unison with the contractors of our loans, designate without delay their representatives on the syndicate of Constantinople to which the revenues mentioned as guarantee will be consigned. You will likewise be kind enough to draw up in concert with my department and in conformity with official notices, an exact statement of the sums devoted both to the full payment in specie of the first half of the coupons and sinking fund of our internal and external debts, and to the payment also in specie of the interest on the new bonds, representing the second half of the said coupons and sinking funds, and lastly, an exact and precise table of the guarantees which will become freed the day of the extinction of the external loan next in rotation for redemption, and which will be thenceforth applied to the said 5 per cent. interest and sinking fund included in case this same 5 per cent could not be repaid at the expiration of the five years. The whole in conformity with what was stated in the last declaration of the sublime porte, bearing date of the 6th of this month. The Imperial Ottoman bank, while acquitting itself of this task, remain at the same time charged with the duty of proposing to my department all the details of execution for insuring the regular working of the new service of the internal and external public debt from Jan 1, 1876.

"Be good enough, gentlemen, to acknowledge, with the least possible delay, receipt of the present letter, and accept at the same time the assurance of my very distinguished consideration."

The owners of the Robert Emmet mine—John Toy, Patrick Faulkner and George Coker—had ten ton of their rock crushed in the Virtue mine mill, near Baker City, and the bullion, received as the result is worth about $200.

The latest San Francisco papers received indicate a slight improvement in the money market of that city but a degree of closeness still prevails sufficient to hamper trade movements to a considerable extent. Though the glimmering of a brighter day in finances is discerned, yet there seems to be a lack of confidence on the part of business men and those holding the capital of the country, and until they unloose their purse-strings, as the money is withheld from investment under the uncertain and unstable condition of affairs. Wild speculation has undoubtedly brought about some of the demoralization which has for some time prevailed in the Pacific emporium.

In our local market the funds available seem quite sufficient to meet the ordinary wants of trade and regular customers of the banks are accommodated on the usual terms, while calls from outside parties are not numerous and meet with some favor.

As the time for the meeting of congress approaches leading journals of the country begin to discuss the financial problem and on no subject do the friends of honest money seem to be more at sea than on the question of how to resume specie payments. All seem to admit that it ought to be done but how to bring it about there seems to be no well defined plan. An exchange proposes the following, which seems at first sight as being worthy of favorable consideration. It is substantially this: the plan contemplates a steady reduction of legal tenders as now provided by law.

"On the 1st of January, 1879, the United States Treasurer should be empowered to redeem all legal tenders presented in sums of $50 and multiples of $50 in coin twenty per cent. and good bonds of the United States for eighty per cent. due on five years' interest, in gold at 4½ per cent. On the 1st of January, 1880, to pay 40 per cent. gold and 60 in bonds. In 1881 60 per cent. in gold and 40 per cent. bonds. In 1882, 80 per cent. gold and 20 bonds. In 1883 and there all gold. In case the treasury should be short of gold the person to sell bonds and procure whatever may be necessary."

Miscellaneous.

The sub-treasurer in San Francisco has by orders from Washington begun the redemption of the gold notes of the Trust Company. The amount to be redeemed is $300 000.

A recent number of the New York Bulletin says that within the past six or eight weeks upwards of 2,000 bales of hops had been purchased in that city for shipment to England and a large quantity has already gone forward. A day or two ago a prominent English shipper purchased 500 bales choice new crop for export, and were immediately shipped by steamer.

Notwithstanding the recent misfortune by the Consolidated Virginia Mining Company in the recent fire at Virginia City, the production of the month of October amounted to upwards of one and one-half million dollars. The directors met and declared the usual monthly dividend of $10 per share, amounting to $1 080 000, payable on the 11th inst.

It is estimated that at the close of 1874, 207 677 steam engines of all classes and descriptions were in use throughout the world. Those put ed engines represented 16 000 000 horse power that is, was equivalent to the power of 50 000 000 horses, working night and day or the labor of 200 000 000 of men. The amount of steam power employed by Great Britain was equivalent to 3,500 000 horse power, and by the United States, 3,500,000 horse-power.

A New York commercial letter dated Nov 7th contains the following. Notwithstanding the intervention of a holiday the wool market has been active throughout the week, and with supplies considerably reduced prices are very stiff on all descriptions. Sales, as is usually the case, are composed chiefly of California, though fleeces and fine grades of foreign have attracted some attention, but holders of the latter show no disposition to yield any concession as the present ruling rates are very much below the cost of importation. New fall clip Texas has not improved in demand as holders ask very firm at opening rates. The clip is reported as being rather inferior this season it being rather hard to find any lots perfectly free of burrs and shives. Oregon and Nevada are now in light stock, and rising in consequence.

Our local wheat market shows no change to-day from the condition noticed on last Saturday. Receipts to-day were not up to the average of last week.

Potatoes are advancing in this market but are not yet selling at the rates at which they are quoted by papers in the interior towns. There is, however a strong probability of a scarcity in the State before spring.

The surplus oats in our State it is estimated will fall short of that of last year by fully 2 per cent and holders are by no means anxious to sell anticipating an advance at no distant day.

Over one half of the surplus wheat crop of California has been shipped and it is thought that but little will remain in that State for export after Feb 1st. A clearing out there, and the blockade of Eastern and Baltic ports by ice will greatly check the enormous receipts in the English markets and tend to advance rates. It is not thought that much more than one fourth of the surplus in our State has yet changed hands.
